Leading Health Professionals to Speak at Health E-Learning Conference

Four leading health professionals have been secured as keynote speakers at Course-Source's 'Health E-Learning' conference at the British Medical Association on Thursday 26th April. Speakers at the conference, which is set to showcase the best of e-learning within the health services, are: -

- Dr Philip Candy

The Director of Education, Training and Development, ETD programme, NHS Connecting for Health, Dr Candy will speak on the subject of "Learning to use Technology: Using Technology to Learn"

- Rosa Lombardi

Rosa Lombardi, Learning and Development Manager at Bedford Hospital NHS Trust, will discuss implementation of the national Essential IT Skills (ECDL) and how her hospital plans to expand its future use.

- Laurence Wilson

An e-learning specialist and board member of TACTICS (Training Assessment and Competency in Trent Intra-operative Cell Salvage), Laurence reveals how the NHS in Trent created bespoke online courseware to provide clinical training for theatre staff.

- Dawn Loughran

As IT Systems Training Lead and IT Infrastructure Project Manager with Nuffield Hospitals, Dawn will set out how Nuffield have adopted e-learning to support an IT systems and equipment upgrade.

Believed to be the first health sector event of its kind, Health E-Learning offers an unparalleled learning and networking opportunity for industry professionals. It will be held at the British Medical Association in London on Thursday April 26th.
